| Characteristics historically linked to discrimination | We know that there are many forms of discrimination, exclusion, and oppression, and also acknowledge the intersectional nature of this discrimination. While we are prioritizing funding for services to communities affected by discrimination on the basis of their race and/or gender identity, we understand that discrimination also does occur - and has historically occurred in our country - on the basis of socioeconomic class, religion, disability, sexual orientation, country of origin, immigration status, age, or any combination of these characteristics, and this discrimination results in inequity. |
| Cisgender | Someone who identifies as the gender/sex they were assigned at birth. |
| DEI | Typically stands for Diversity, Equity, and Inclusion. |
| Discrimination | Power plus privilege. |
| Disparities | Differences in life experiences, life outcomes, and the distribution of society's benefits and burdens determined by a person's race, gender identity, and other characteristics historically linked to discrimination and/or exclusion. |
| Equity | The condition that would be achieved if one's identity no longer predicted how one fared in life. |
| Gender Identity | A person's internal, deeply held sense of their gender. |
| Implicit Bias | The attitudes or stereotypes that affect one's understanding, actions and decisions in an unconscious manner. Implicit or unconscious biases affect not only our perceptions but also our behavior, policies and institutional arrangements. Also known as implicit social cognition or unconscious bias. |

| Interpersonal Racism | How our private beliefs about race become public when we interact with others. When we act upon our prejudices or unconscious bias - whether intentionally, visibly, verbally or not - we engage in interpersonal racism. Interpersonal racism also can be willful and overt, taking the form of bigotry, hate speech, or racial violence. |

| Power | Control, influence or authority. Rashad Robinson said "Power is the ability to change the rules." Dr. Martin Luther King, Jr. said, "Power is the ability to achieve a purpose. Whether or not it is good or bad depends upon the purpose." In a social change and equity context, distinctions are made between "power over" and "power with." |
| Race | A socially constructed system of categorizing humans based on observable physical features (phenotypes) such as skin color and on ancestry. There is no scientific basis for or discernable distinction between racial categories. The ideology of race has become embedded in our identities, institutions and culture and is used as a basis for discrimination and domination. |
| Racial Justice | The systematic fair treatment for people of all races that results in equitable opportunities and outcomes for everyone. All people are able to achieve their full potential in life, regardless of race, ethnicity or the community in which they live. Racial justice - or racial equity - goes beyond "anti-racism." It's not just about what we are against, but also what we are for. A "racial justice" framework can move us from a reactive posture to a more powerful, proactive and even preventative approach. |
| Sexism | Prejudice, stereotyping, or discrimination, on the basis of sex/gender. |
| Structural Racism | The macro level systems, social forces, institutions, ideologies and processes that interact with one another to generate and reinforce inequities among racial and ethnic groups. |
| Transgender | An umbrella term for people whose gender identity and/or gender expression differs from what is typically associated with the sex they were assigned at birth. |
| White Privilege | Inherent advantages possessed by a white person on the basis of their race in a society characterized by racial inequality and injustice. |
